

101 IDEAS

BEAUTY SNOOP

Hermès scarf, $410. "The classic orange scarves are a wardrobe staple."

Carmex Original Formula, $3. "I never leave the house without lip balm, hand cream, and lip balm. One standby is good old-fashioned Carmex."

"It Soothes, It Heals, It Protects."

Etta James, "Lately I've been listening to her albums—brings back fond memories."

Airborne Formula in Pink Grapefruit, $7. "My trick for staying healthy when traveling a lot."

Chanel Vitalumière Aqua Fresh and Hydrating Cream Compact Makeup SPF 15 in 20 Beige, $58. "One of my beauty staples."

The Body Shop White Musk Libertine Eau de Toilette, $26. "It has a sensual floral-musk scent and is produced cruelty-free."

The Body Shop Lily Cole Lip & Cheek Dome in Pinch Me Pink, $15. "Such strong, fun matte colors that work for cheeks or lips!"

Yves Saint Laurent Touche Éclat in Luminous Almond, $40. "A must-have!"

The Body Shop Tea Tree Oil, $9. "If I'm breaking out, I just dab on a bit of this."

Amarijwo resort, Java, Indonesia. "My favorite spot!"

Essentrics. "I do this workout a few times a week in addition to swimming."

The Beautiful Life

The Body Shop's new ambassador, Lily Cole, on her favorite things

WHEN APPROACHED BY the earth-friendly cosmetics company, the supermodel turned actress and philanthropist didn't hesitate to join the cause. "We have similar values," she says, referring to both parties' well-publicized advocacy for animal, environmental, and human rights. The products of their partnership, so far: a cruelty-free makeup line and a new campaign, "Beauty With Heart," which draws attention to the ethical beauty junkie's mantra, "Look good, feel good, and do good." After touring the brand's new retail concept—where the inspiring stories behind fair-trade ingredients are up close and personal—we sat down with Cole in London as she shared her current obsessions. —Erin Flaherty

Pukka Organic Aloe Vera Juice, $21. "The best tip I've learned on set is to drink aloe vera juice for good skin."

Young Living Rose Essential Oil Supplement, $237. "I've been wearing a lot of rose scents lately. I like using this essential oil as perfume."

Duke of Cambridge organic pub. "One of my London haunts."

Sisley Paris Floral Spray Mist, $95. "A travel essential."

Elizabeth Arden Fragrance Free Eight Hour Cream Skin Protectant, $20. "It's a good moisturizer—I also use it as a lip balm."